Family can be difficult: how do handle it when _____?

People are supposed to _____ what they _____. (2 Corinthians 9:6 and Galatians 6:7)

If I _____ the law of sowing and reaping, I will reap what they sowed and they will never experience _____ of their own choices, and probably never change.

“Boundaries are _____”

Galatians 6:1-5 – if something is too heavy for one person to carry on their own, we should help them carry it. But, if it's something they should've been able to do themselves, they _____ on their own.

EXAMPLES:

- Kids: Let their problem be _____ when it's a problem they have the ability to fix.
- Angry spouse: If I rescue a hot-tempered person, I'll _____ do it _____.
- Bosses/Leaders: They often push for me to do more, I need to know when & _____.

Boundaries aren't about me forcing other people to do something.

Boundaries are about what I _____.

Real Life Questions:

Am I a boundary breaker? Where do I expect people to “_____” or take care of my stuff?

Do I allow boundary breakers in my life? If so, I should _____ when the person faces consequences, but I _____ rescue them.

Do I setup appropriate boundaries, help with joy when it's good to help, and _____ _____ I should should say no?
